Regional Forecasting on labour markets is a regional approach to generate data about future developments that cover adequately the information needs of labour market actors. Approaches from different European regions are presented in this book. Furthermore, the central elements of these approaches are discussed with respect to their problems in data and / or methodology. Some solutions are discussed within the different models presented.

This book was developed by several members of the European Network of Regional Labour Market Monitoring.

Key Words: Regional Labour Market, Regional Forecasting, Regional Information
